TEAM LIBRARY

Open access is a global movement advocating free online access to academic content. It removes financial, legal, and technical barriers, allowing unrestricted reading, downloading, copying, and distribution. This model contrasts with traditional subscriptions, enhancing research visibility and accessibility. The Berlin Declaration (2003) outlines open access principles, embraced by numerous academic institutions worldwide. Publication avenues include:

1. Full Open Access Journals: Published on platforms, often requiring Article Processing Charges (APCs).
2. Hybrid Journals: Subscription-based journals allowing APCs for open access articles.
3. Green Route: Depositing publications in trusted repositories.
4. Diamond Route: Publishing in journals/platforms without APCs, typically funded by institutions.

Peter Suber, an open access pioneer, provided this definition.

Sherpa Romeo

DID YOU NOW?

Sherpa Romeo
Sherpa Romeo is an online resource that aggregates and presents publisher and journal open access policies from around the world. Every registered publisher or journal held in Romeo is carefully reviewed and analysed by our specialist team who provide summaries of self-archiving permissions and conditions of rights given to authors on a journal-by-journal basis where possible.
The policy information provided through this service primarily aims to serve the academic research community.

Research Funders' Open Access Policies
Helping authors and institutions make informed and confident decisions in open access publication and compliance.
Sherpa Romeo
Sherpa Romeo enables researchers and librarians to see publishers' conditions for open access archiving on a journal-by-journal basis.
Sherpa Juliet
Sherpa Juliet enables researchers and librarians to see funders' conditions for open access publication.
OpenDOAR
OpenDOAR enables the identification, browsing and search for repositories.
Sherpa Fact
Sherpa Fact checks if compliance with funder open access policies can be achieved with a particular journal.
